DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 2, 6, 9, 12, 16, and 19 are objected to because of the following informalities: It is not clear if these depending claims are reciting a different lesion from the lesion recited in their respective independent claims. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Zadno-Azizi (WO 98/38930). See Figure 18 and the respective portions of the specification. Zadno discloses a method of protection against stroke comprising the steps of inserting a distal end of a catheter (406) into a carotid artery, locating a first expandable balloon (408) within a common carotid artery (404) proximal a lesion (not numbered) in an internal carotid artery (400), locating a second expandable balloon (430) within an external carotid artery (402), expanding the first expandable balloon to occlude the common carotid artery, expanding the second expandable member to at least partially obstruct the carotid artery thereby abolishing antegrade blood flow in the internal carotid artery, performing an angioplasty procedure on the lumen that can include aspiration and stenting (claim 13), wherein the blood flow in the internal carotid artery is reversed (by occluding or aspiration) to pass over the lesion and toward the CCA, wherein the second balloon can be expanded before the first, wherein the second balloon is expanded to occlude the ECA, and wherein the distal end of the catheter carries the first and second balloons.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-20 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-19 of U.S. Patent No. 6,626,886.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the only difference is that the instant claims recite performing an angioplasty procedure, while the patented claims recite performing an interventional procedure. It is well known in the art that angioplasty and stenting are common examples of interventional procedures for removing lesions.

Claims 1-20 rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1 and 5-8 of U.S. Patent No. 6,146,370. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they claim the same steps with different words.

Claims 1-20 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1 and 7-10 of U.S. Patent No. 6,623,471. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they claim the same steps with different words.
